8 May 2020 – Åland

Value Världen, World (no face value, €2.00) – Ancient Postal Routes – This stamp shows the Postal Boat Race across the sea of Åland. The race, which began in 1974, follows the 400 year old postal route between Aland and Sweden.

The first mail run across Åland to Finland departed from Sweden in 1638. The crossing between Grisslehamn and Eckerö was to be known as one of the most dangerous postal routes in the world, particularly during times of treacherous ice and snow conditions; more than 200 farmer–postmen lost their lives.

EUROPA Rotas do Correio Antigo No arquipélago dos Açores existiam vários problemas relacionados com o transporte de correspondência. O correio circulava por via marítima, no entanto só em 1821, se tornou oficial este tipo de transporte.

A circulação das cartas e encomendas, no interior das ilhas, era feita com a ajuda de particulares ou com a contratação de almocreves. Mas o interior das ilhas tinha algumas dificuldades como a falta de caminhos e os percursos acidentados. Assim, tornava-se mais fácil dar a volta à ilha de barco.

As ilhas dos Açores, desde 1871 que eram ligadas por navios da empresa Insulana de Navegação, que também transportavam a correspondência.

Devido à localização deste arquipélago, a partir de 1918, foi muitas vezes utilizado como escala de voos de hidroaviões mas só em 1937 é que se estabeleceram os serviços aéreos regulares com transporte de correio.

EUROPA Ancient Postal Routes In the Açores archipelago there were several problems related to post transportation. The mail circulated by sea, however only in 1821, this type of transport became official.

The circulation of letters and parcels within the islands was done with the help of private services or with hired muleteers. But the interior of the islands had some problems, such as the lack of roads and the rugged routes. This made it easier to get around the island by boat.

The Azores islands, since 1871, were connected by ships from the Empresa Insulana de Navegação (Island Navigation Company), which also carried the mail.

Due to the location of this archipelago, from 1918, it was often used as a stopover for seaplane flights however only in 1937, started the regular air services including the transportation of post.

Festas do Divino Espírito Santo dos Açores Estas festas realizam-se entre o Domingo de Páscoa e o Domingo de Trindade.

É uma festa fortemente comunitária, de cariz solidário profundo e muito enraizada entre a população. Promove momentos de encontro, de partilha, de irmandade, de alegria e de paz.

Este culto de séculos potência as atitudes e valores muito humanistas e solidários, como o Peditório, a distribuição de alimentos pelos mais carenciados, as refeições que são oferecidas a todas as pessoas e o convívio entre vizinhos e amigos, acompanhado dos tradicionais e saborosos pratos como as sopas que variam de ilha para ilha, a carne guisada, o arroz doce, as rosquilhas, a grande variedade de pães de leite ou de massa sovada entre outros.

As festas do Divino Espírito Santo tem algumas diferenças nos festejos e têm um grande significado nos Açores.

Festivities of the Divine Holy Spirit – Azores This festivities take place between Easter Sunday and Trinity Sunday.

This is a strongly communal Festivitie, with a deep solidarity and deeply rooted among the population. It promotes moments of meeting, of sharing, of fraternity, of joy and of peace.

This centuries-old cult enhances very humanistic and supportive attitudes and values, such as the collection, the distribution of food to the neediest, the meals that are offered to all people and the conviviality between neighbors and friends, accompanied by traditional and tasty dishes such as soups that vary from island to island, such as the meat stew, the rice pudding, the rosquilhas (twisted ring-shaped rolls), striking range of breads, such as milk loaf or sweet bread among others.

The festivities of Divino Espírito Santo have some differences in celebrations and have great significance in the Azores.

ЕВРОПА – ДРЕВНЕ ПОШТАНСКЕ РУТЕ

Према сачуваним списима из периода Отоманског царства, прве поште на територији данашње Републике Српске отворене су током 1864. године. Привилегију да први добију поштанске станице имали су Вишеград, Зворник, Бијељина, Брчко, Градишка и Брод.

У периоду Отоманске владавине нису постојале уређене поште, нити поштанске линије с одређеним правцем и временом одласка и доласка пошиљки. Према потреби, пренос поште вршили су татари на коњима. Носећи пошту, татари су се током пута кратко задржавали у поштанским станицама, где су мијењали коње, одмарали се и јели. Турске власти изградиле су поштанске станице на сваких десет сати хода. Главна поштанска линија, била је Травник-Цариград, коју су татари одржавали преко Сарајева, Рогатице, Вишеграда, Прибоја, Косовске Митровице и даље ка Скопљу и престоници Отоманског царства. Татари су на тој линији преносили важнија службена писма, државне документе...

EUROPA – ANCIENT POSTAL ROUTES

According to preserved documents from the Ottoman Empire, the first post offices in the territory of present-day Republic of Srpska were opened during 1864. The privilege of being the first to receive postal stations was given to Visegrad, Zvornik, Bijeljina, Brcko, Gradiska and Brod.

During the Ottoman rule, there were no regular mail, no postal lines with a specific direction and time of departure and arrival of shipments. Where necessary, mail was transmitted by the Tatars on horses. Carrying mail, the Tatars stayed briefly in the post offices during the trip, where they changed horses, rested and ate. Turkish authorities have built post offices at every ten hours of walk.

Поштанска веза између Србије и Босне почела је функционисати током 1851. године, а транспорт поште обављао се преко граничног прелаза између Раче и Бијељине.

Када је 1878. године изграђена пруга жељезничка пруга у овом дијелу Отоманског царства, која је повезивала Бањалуку и Добрљин, пошиљке упућене у Бањалуку и Градишку, су одвајане, док су остала писма отпремана жељезницом према Приједору, Новом Граду (тадашњем Босанском Новом) и Добрљину. Службеник у пошти био је дужан да на сваком писму мастилом означи његову тежину и износ наплаћене поштарине, као и да на то мјесто стави жиг поште.

Марке и коверте с маркама продаване су у већим поштанским станицама, а поштански правилник предвиђао је и могућност да се марке продају и изван поштанских зграда.

На Берлинском конгресу 1878. године, Аустроугарска је преузела управљање Босном и Херцеговином. Састављи дио опсежних припрема за окупацију БиХ сачињаване су и припреме за рад ратних пошта. Ове поште бавиле су се само примањем и отпремањем кореспонденције, новина и новчаних пошиљака.

The main postal line was Travnik-Constantinople maintained by the Tatars through Sarajevo, Rogatica, Visegrad, Priboj, Kosovska Mitrovica and further to Skopje and the capital of the Ottoman Empire. The Tatars carried along this line more important official letters, state documents....

The postal link between Serbia and Bosnia began to function during 1851, and the mail was transported via the border crossing between Raca and Bijeljina.

When the first railway line in this part of the Ottoman Empire was built in 1878, connecting Banja Luka and Dobrljin, consignments sent to Banja Luka and Gradiška were separated, while other letters were sent by rail to Prijedor, Novi Grad (then Bosanski Novi) and Dobrljin.

The post office clerk was required to indicate on each letter the ink's weight and the amount of the postage charged, as well as to affix the postmark thereon.

Stamps and envelopes with stamps were sold in larger post offices, and the postal rule book also provided for the possibility of stamps being sold outside post offices.

At the Congress of Berlin in 1878, Austria-Hungary took over the management of Bosnia and Herzegovina. Preparations for the operation of war post offices were an integral part of the extensive preparations for the occupation of Bosnia and Herzegovina. These mails only dealt with receiving and dispatching correspondence, newspapers, and money.

8.60 k – Ancient Postal Routes – St Francis Chapel, (Velebit) and road built from 1825 to 1832 and is considered the first modern road that connected continental Croatia and Dalmatia. It was built by the famous builder of Croatian roads of the time, border officer Josip Kajetan Knežić. Precisely because of the high quality of design and construction, it was called the “Master Road”. At the end of 1833, traffic was established once a week by postage carriages (dilizansa) between Vienna and Zadar.

22 April 2020 – Czech Republic

Value E (no face value, 39 Kc.) – Ancient Postal Routes

In the Czech lands, the development of postage began only with the advent of the Habsburgs. Regular mail, organized news transport in today's territory of the Czech Republic is associated with the election of Ferdinand I as Czech king and was created even before Habsburg took the Czech throne, already in 1526. Ferdinand I used the services and experience of the aristocratic Taxis family, who since the end of the 13th century have almost monopolized postal transport in northern Italy and much of Europe. The oldest postal route between Prague and Vienna led through Tábor and further into the area of Košice, where it was divided into two branches. The southern one was heading for Linz, the eastern branch led through Jindrichuv Hradec and Slavonice further towards Vienna.

1490, the Roman–German king and later Emperor Maximilian I commissioned the brothers Janetto and Francesco de Tasso to establish a postal connection. With the help of their family, they created the Dutch postal exchange, on which letters could be sent from Innsbruck to the Netherlands and as far as Italy.
This postal exchange is considered to be the first permanently operated, centrally organized postal route in the Holy Roman Empire and the year 1490 as the founding year of the modern European postal system. Along the route, post stations were built where riders and horses changed and the messengers handed over the broadcasts to each other like a relay (relay system).

In the territory of Hungary at the time of Louis the Great in the 14th century, guilds established postal routes, which, besides their own correspondence, carried the letters of private individuals, while travelling merchants and craftsmen took the messages and orders of customers to distant places. One of the most well–known postal routes was that of the butchers. Armed drivers escorting cattle from the Hungarian Great Plain to markets abroad carried the correspondence of the cities and their burghers based on individual instructions.

The mini sheet shows the work of László Balla, The Butchers' Post Progressing Through Hungary and Diligence Crossing the Hortobágy Plain

MOLDOVA EUROPA 2020 RUTE POȘTALE VECHI

Marca poștală cu valoarea nominală de 9,50 L reprezintă ruta poștală din Basarabia după anul 1812.

Basarabia, de la nord la sud, era traversată de principalul drum de poștă, care de fapt era o continuare a celui ce venea de la Sankt-Petersburg, traversând râul Nistru lângă târgul Otaci, trecând prin orașele Hotin, Bălți, Orhei și Chișinău. În Chișinău se ramifica în două artere: una pornea spre Cahul până la orașul Ismail, iar a doua – spre orașul Bender, cu o nouă ramificație până la Akkerman.

Marca poștală cu valoarea nominală de 11 L reprezintă prima linie poștală aeriană București – Galați – Chișinău, București – Galați – Iași, inaugurată la 24 iunie 1926. În acest scop au fost transformate 9 avioane militare de tip De Havilland DH-9 în avioane de transport pentru poștă și pasageri. Cursele de avioane între Chișinău și București aveau loc în mod regulat.

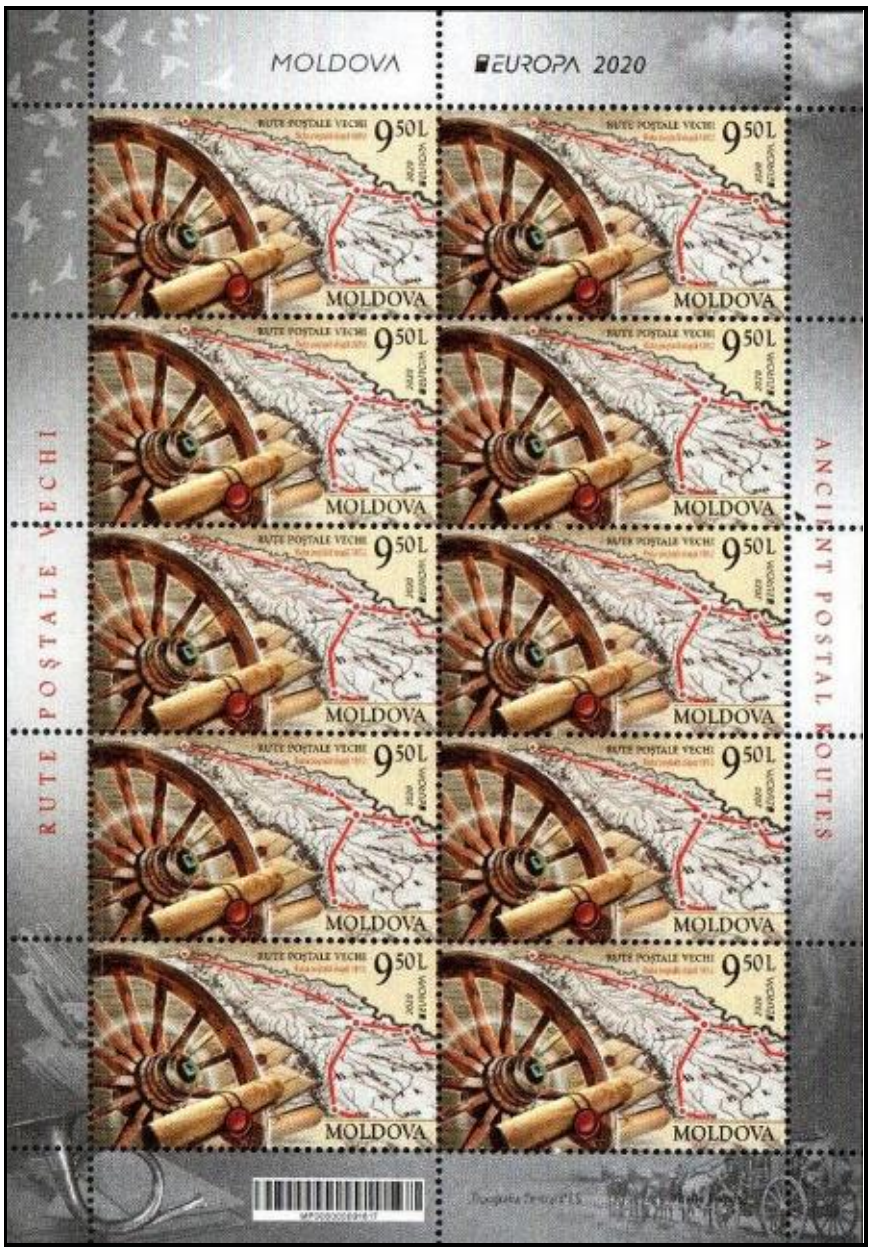

Astfel, la ora 7:00 dimineața, porneau concomitent 2 avioane din Chișinău și Iași, care ajungeau la Galați la ora 8:45. Din Galați pleca un singur avion spre București. La ora 15:15 se întorcea în Galați din București tot un singur avion. La ora 19:00, din Galați plecau două avioane: unul spre Chișinău și altul spre Iași. După sosire, imediat se distribuia corespondența.

01 September 2020 – Spitsbergen Svalbard (Norway)
1000 Rb – D/S Lyngen

Svalbard, also known as Spitsbergen, or Spitzbergen, is a Norwegian archipelago in the Arctic Ocean. They use Norway stamps for all postal matters. They are not authorized to produce stamps. This item is illegally produced by a private source with intent to profit from and deceive collectors. They are being promoted by a notorious illegal and counterfeit stamp dealer located in Svalbard who has created a new website completely based on lies. Russia has no authority over Svalbard.
